

Dear sir(s) ,

I am against cross-ownership of newspapers and television media in the same market. This results in the concentration of media in too few hands. For example, I am deeply concerned about the acquisition in New York City of UPN9 by Fox5. Rupert Murdoch will now own two major television stations and one newspaper, the New York Post. This is a gross concentration of media holdings in one of the nation's largest media markets. Please reconsider allowing cross-ownership in markets. Thank you for considering my comments for the public record.
